MediaNet is a non-profit media art center mandated to support and facilitate the creative use of video/film for communication and personal expression and to promote the creation, presentation and appreciation of independent video & film work.

MediaNet facilitates the production of independent work by:

- Providing video equipment at affordable rates to enable access to the medium. Equipment includes digital video cameras, professional sound and light kits and access to Final Cut Pro edit suites.
- Providing a range of opportunities for individuals to develop media skills in a co-operative environment including mentoring and workshops on aspects of video and film production, funding, theory, and aesthetics.
- Hosting presentations and screenings by local and visiting video/filmmakers.
- Creating a supportive engaged community in which to work.
- Providing expertise, information and support to individuals.

Our membership includes people working in diverse genres, from documentary and experimental to drama, and ranges from beginners to veteran film/video artists.

MediaNet facilitates the presentation and appreciation of work by:

- Presenting public screenings of independent Canadian documentary, experimental and narrative short and feature-length work.
- Raising awareness of independent Canadian feature through a variety of initiatives including the MediaNet First Weekend Club that notifies audiences of theatrical release of Canadian features.
